

Judge Rules Toll Commission May Close Delaware Bridge

Court Forbids Razing Of Span Pending Appeal

Trenton, N. J. (AP) — A group of Pennsylvania taxpayers failed yesterday in an attempt to keep the Delaware-Upper Mt. Bethel Township bridge open pending appeal from a decision that the span may be destroyed.

Federal Judge Phillip Forman ruled the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, a Pennsylvania-New Jersey agency, may close the bridge but not destroy it until the appeal is determined.

Forman ruled two weeks ago that the commission may demolish the bridge in order to eliminate competition for the nearby Portland-Columbia toll bridge. The taxpayers are taking Forman's decision to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Forman said the commission must post signs on both bridges—one on the free bridge to tell the public there was an appeal on the case and one on the toll bridge telling drivers they can get a toll receipt and refund if the free bridge is reopened.

Toll receipts on the Portland-Columbia bridge are to be given only to Pennsylvania and New Jersey drivers of vehicles weighing 15 tons or less. The weight limit on the free bridge was 15 tons.

Forman said the signs on the two bridges should be "conspicuous" with lettering two-and-a-half inches high. He ordered attorneys for the commission and the taxpayers to work out between them the wording on the signs and to prepare an appropriate order for his signature.

Forman decided the free bridge should be closed to traffic after Herbert M. Backes, attorney for the commission, said engineers had determined the span was unsafe.

Isadore M. Glauber, attorney for the taxpayers, offered to reduce the weight limit to nine tons, but Backes said the bridge might collapse at any moment under even that load.

Forman commented from the bench that he wanted nothing to do with keeping open a bridge which might collapse and let someone "drive into the Delaware River."

The judge said he could not go along with Glauber's argument that closing the free bridge, even temporarily, would destroy public faith in the appeal.

He said the fact that the bridge was closed should spur support for the appeal.

New Jersey State Sen. Wayne Dumont Jr., who attended the hearing, commented to a reporter, "I never saw an authority (the bridge commission) so far removed from the public—if they can do."

French Open War's Biggest Air Assaults

Hanoi, Indochina (AP) — The French launched their heaviest air assaults of the Indochinese War yesterday to aid the beleaguered defenders of Dien Bien Phu.

American-supplied fighters and B26 bombers laid down barrages of thousands of pounds of high explosives and fire bombs on Communist-led rebel troop concentrations.

They ranged out to smash rebel supply convoys, strafed thousands of coolies carrying Red war material while cargo planes parachuted tons of ammunition and supplies to men in the besieged fortress.

French troops and their Vietnamese allies, bolstered by the air drops, tightened their network of defenses for another expected large scale assault by the Vietnamese rebels.

U. S. Invites Pacific Allies To Join In Warning To Reds Against Further Aggression

London (AP) — The United States has called on Britain, France, Australia and New Zealand to join in issuing a stern warning intended to protect war-torn Indochina and the rest of Southeast Asia from further Communist aggression.

The British Foreign Office said terms of the declaration have not yet been completed, but are being hammered out in Washington at conferences between U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and ambassadors of the other countries which would sign it.

Australian government sources in Canberra said the United States has also asked that country, New Zealand and Britain to give all possible aid to France to prevent Indochina falling to the Reds.

Authoritative Washington reports said the United States was aiming at a Southeast Asian regional grouping which could counter Red threats to that area.

All these moves were evidently part of Dulles' campaign to save Indochina and the rich Southeast Asia territory by "united action" of the Free World.

Britain appears ready to join in some form of declaration concerning Southeast Asia, but the Foreign Office does not want to say so officially until a mutually satisfactory draft is reached.

A French Foreign Ministry spokesman said in Paris some Asian governments also would be asked to join in the formal warning. The Philippines and Thailand presumably were the most likely to be approached.

The President slashed European aid funds for the next fiscal year one billion dollars, or 58 per cent, under the current year. He sent to Congress a $3,497,700,000 overseas program, including Europe, Asia and other areas, for the year ending June 30, 1955.

The overall program is the smallest since global foreign aid got under way in 1948 and is more than one billion dollars less than the $4,726,000,000 voted by Congress last year.

But it includes $1,122,000,000 for military and economic aid to Indochina, the largest single item in a budget that otherwise reflects a marked scale down in funds for arms.

Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen, outlining the program to the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Indochina is earmarked for 300 million dollars in arms, 800 million in military-supporting expenditures and the balance for economic help.

He said this budget is based on the belief that Indochina must be held and that the war there can be won in two years.

This is about the same total as current expenditures—about 65 per cent of the cost of Indochina fighting—but the new request comes amid fresh concern over the outcome of current bitter fighting.

In all, the Far East and the Pacific are bracketed for a total of $1,768,900,000, a little over half the entire measure.

Europe is cut from $2,300,000,000 to $947,700,000.

Balanced Budget Is Proposed In Great Britain

London (AP) — Britain's Conservative government announced a "carry-on" budget yesterday—starring pat on substantially the same fiscal program it claimed saved industrial production to record heights last year.

Giving the impression the Churchill government has no immediate plans for a general election this year, Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler put forward a balanced budget calling for expenditures of 4,523,000,000 pounds ($12,664,400,000) and leaving a "small surplus" of 14 million pounds ($39,200,000).

Tree-Lovers Oppose Street Improvements On Ransberry Avenue, East Stroudsburg

Some Ransberry Ave. residents came up with one for the books last night at East Stroudsburg Council meeting.

They petitioned council not to improve the street.

The petition was brought in by Mrs. Irving Kiffin of 112 Ransberry and Mrs. Harry Kresge, 115 Ransberry.

When they explained they didn't want curb and gutter work done on their section of the street, council did a moderate double-take.

The women explained they were tree-lovers, as most of the residents in that portion of Ransberry were, and the removal of the trees so that curb and gutter work could be done would "destroy the natural beauty of the

Sears Quits As Counsel For Inquiry

By Wilnot Hercher

Washington (AP) — Samuel P. Sears, under fire on the ground that he is biased in favor of Sen. McCarthy, yesterday resigned as special counsel for the Senate subcommittee preparing to investigate the hot row between McCarthy and Army officials.

The pipe-smoking Boston lawyer declared he was satisfied he could conduct the big probe impartially, but he felt it was "in the public interest" to withdraw in view of the questions raised about his past praise of McCarthy.

Sears handed in his resignation as members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee met to consider allegations that Sears is a long-time admirer of the Wisconsin senator and therefore might not be accepted by the public as an impartial investigator.

His resignation was accepted unanimously. The vote was 6-0, the same as that by which he was appointed special counsel only last Thursday.

"I am completely satisfied in my own mind that I am thoroughly competent to conduct the pending inquiry objectively, impartially and in fairness to all," Sears said in a statement given to reporters.

"However, that is not the test. The investigation must go forward not only with the full confidence of those involved but, perhaps more important, with absolute confidence of the people."

Sears' sudden withdrawal left the subcommittee just as far away as ever from the start of its investigation. Now a new special counsel must be found—and the senators no doubt will take special pains to find a man whose impartiality cannot be challenged.

William J. Jameson of Billings, Mont., president of the American Bar Assn., already has turned down the job.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), acting chairman of the subcommittee, disclosed yesterday that in its search for a counsel the group had asked Chief Justice Warren of the Supreme Court about having a federal judge assigned to the job.

Mundt said in a statement that Warren took the question up with his associate justices and they decided unanimously that "it would establish a dangerous precedent which would not be in the best public interest."

"Had the Supreme Court decided otherwise," Mundt added, "we had decided to ask Judge Harold Medina be assigned to the task."

Medina, now a member of the Second U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, presided over the New York trial of 11 American Communist leaders who were convicted of conspiracy to teach the violent overthrow of the government.

Canada Orders Cut In Taxes

Ottawa (AP) — The Canadian government last night shaved about 40 million dollars a year off the taxpayers' bill in a 1954-55 budget of light cuts that left the tax structure basically unchanged.

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott called for a balanced budget—Canada's ninth in a row—with a surplus of four million dollars.

But he did not rule out the possibility of a deficit of up to around 130 million dollars if Canada's economic progress does not regain its postwar pace from a current slowdown.

Accused By Israel

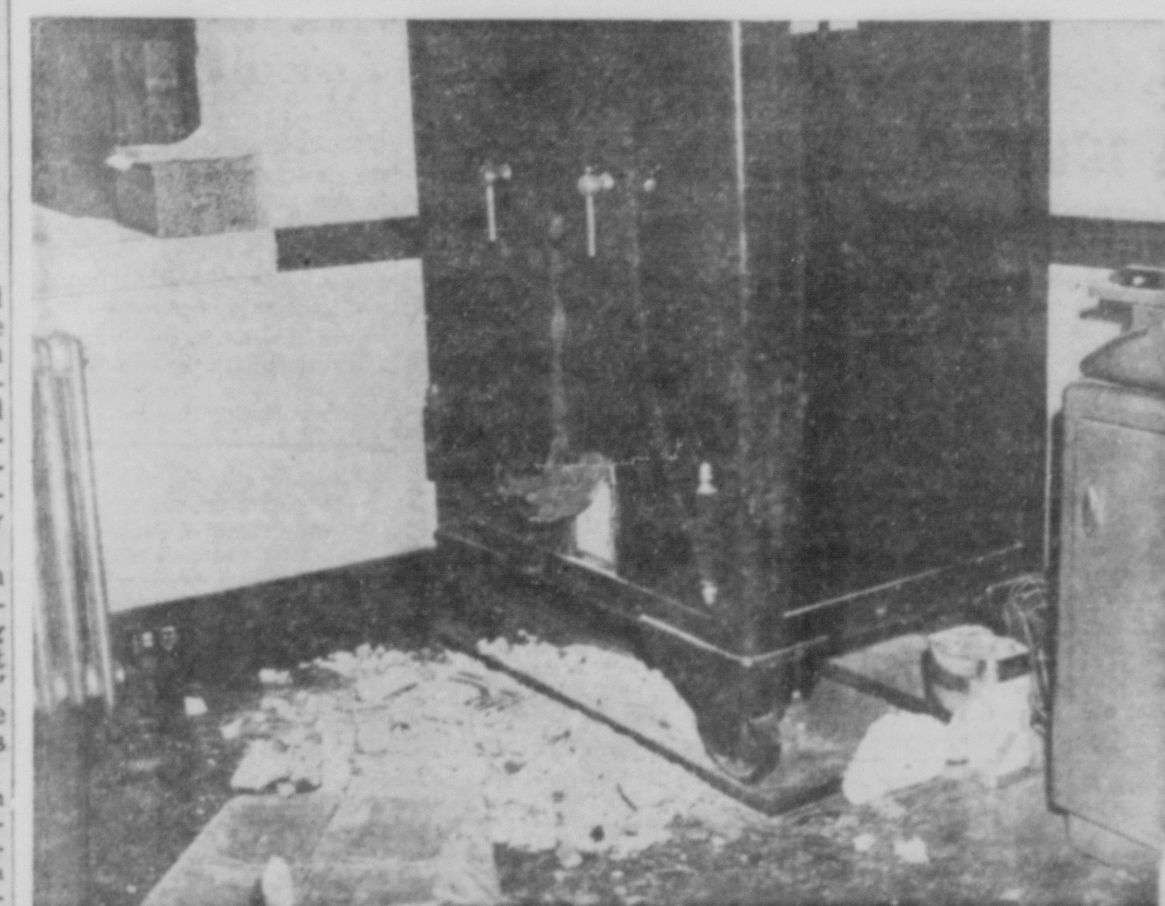

Jerusalem, Israel Section (AP) — Israel accused Egyptians, Jordanians and Syrians of separate border attacks yesterday.

It was the first time in my experience on council that they don't want improvements.

"Well, that's not an improvement," replied Mrs. Kiffin. "I don't agree with you."

The ladies discussed old ordinances, took a look at maps, checked the differences between ordinances old and new with Engineer Edward C. Hess, then left.

The council agreed it had no intention of spending the estimated $13,600 set up for the Ransberry improvements when the majority of people on the street were against the improvements.

ATTEMPTS OF BURGLARS to crack this safe in Stroudsburg High School principal's office resulted only in peeling back the metal sheeting. The safe contained nothing but scholastic records.

Safe Full Of School Records Weathers Burglars' Onslaught

An attempt to break open a safe in Stroudsburg High School early yesterday netted the would-be burglars exactly nothing.

Chief of Police James F. McConnell placed the time of the safe-cracking attempt at between 11 p. m. Monday and 7:15 a. m. yesterday when custodian Clarence Booth found the heavy metal safe had been the subject of the attempt.

The school was locked the night before by Alex Phillips, a janitor, police said.

Ironically, according to Earl Groner, school superintendent, even a successful break-in wouldn't have given the burglars anything—since the safe contained only scholastic records.

Located in the principal's office on the Main St. side of the first floor, the safe was "peeled" by jimmying tools and part of the insulation material, concrete and asphalt, was strewn around the floor in front of the safe.

Police said the school evidently was entered through a window after efforts to jimmy doors failed. Once inside the school, the intended burglars forced open the door to the office.

Chief McConnell said he believed the double-door safe had been worked over for some time. The combination had been knocked off in the attempt, then efforts were made to pry open the outside metal sheeting.

Rivets were torn off and a small section was opened. It was from here the insulation dropped to the floor. But the attempt never was continued to further explore other metal covering.

Assisting Chief McConnell in the investigation is Pfc. Edward Benesky of Stroudsburg State Police. State police from Wyoming were called to take fingerprints. Aside from the safe cracking effort, nothing in the room was touched, police said. Desk drawers all were closed and files intact.

Decitizenship Bill Drafted

Washington (AP) — Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) announced yesterday he is drafting legislation to strip citizenship from members of the Communist party or those who give "allegiance to communism."

Ferguson, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said his proposal would be an expansion of a "decitizenship" measure suggested to Congress by President Eisenhower.

The medical officer said the parish would cease all preparations "until we hear from Washington or New York that the vaccine is safe. The state medical society feels the same way."

Authorities said in New York that all new polio vaccine goes through nine tests in three different laboratories and is absolutely safe before it is released for tests on children.

Sen. McCarthy Poses Question In Broadcast

By Arthur Everett

New York (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) charged last night that America deliberately delayed its hydrogen bomb research for 18 months for some mysterious reason.

He made the statement on a reply to radio-television commentator Edward R. Murrow's recent attack on him. He did not refer to Murrow when, in a general discussion of Communist pressure within this country, he said:

"If there were no Communists in our government, why did we delay for 18 months—delay our research on the hydrogen bomb, even though our intelligence agencies were reporting day after day that the Russians were feverishly pushing their development of the bomb?"

"And may I say to America tonight that our nation may well die—our nation may well die because of that 18 month deliberate delay—and ask you caused it? Was it loyal Americans or was it traitors in our government?"

Murrow on March 9 accused McCarthy of repeatedly stepping over the line that divides investigation and persecution.

McCarthy retorted last night that Murrow "as far back as 20 years ago was engaged in propaganda for Communist causes."

Between McCarthy and CBS, the text of the senator's filmed statement was kept secret up to the time of broadcast. However, in a reply prepared in advance, CBS said in part:

"The management of CBS has had ample opportunity . . . to become fully aware of Mr. Murrow's passionate devotion to his country and to the fundamental principles upon which it is built. It also knows of his equally passionate opposition to those who, either within or outside our boundaries, would subvert those principles."

Murrow made no comment whatsoever on the television program. "See It Now," itself. But he, too, had a printed statement in reply to McCarthy ready in advance.

He said in part:

"Sen. McCarthy's reckless and unfounded attempt to impugn my loyalty is just one more example of his typical tactic of attempting to tie up to Communism anyone who disagrees with him . . ."

McCarthy's reply to Murrow was filmed late last week. The senator, himself, is in Arizona.

The Wisconsin senator charged that Murrow's March 9 broadcast "followed implicitly the Communist line as laid down in the last six months, laid down not only by the Communist Daily Worker but by the Communist magazine, Political Affairs, and by the National Conference of the Communist party of the U. S. A."

In a lengthy review of Communist successes throughout the world McCarthy pointed to the loss of China and said:

"Were those 400 million Chinese captured by force of arms? Certainly not! They were delivered to Communist slave masters by the jackal pack of Communist lying propagandists—including the friends of Mr. Edward R. Murrow, who day after day shouted to the world that the Chinese Communists were agrarian reformers and our ally, the Republic of China, represented everything that was evil and wicked."

Specifically, McCarthy charged that Murrow, by his own admission, was a member of the International Workers of the World, a terrorist organization of the early 20th Century. Murrow replied that this was a "false charge . . . manufactured by Sen. McCarthy."

McCarthy quoted Owen Lattimore's statement in his book, "Ordeal By Slander," in which Lattimore wrote that "I owe a very special debt to men I have never met—I must mention at least, Edward R. Murrow."

NATO Hands Juin Sharp Rebuke

Paris (AP) — The North Atlantic Council handed French Marshal Alphonse Juin a rebuke yesterday which a NATO spokesman described as strong enough to provoke him to resign his Allied command.

The council told the marshal, commander of NATO forces in central Europe, it regrets deeply his repeated criticisms of the European Defense Treaty.

Lenten Meditation

Ploughing Time

Spring is ploughing time. I imagine that if soil could speak it would cry out loudly in protest at being jolted from its unproductive condition by the sharp plows.

However, if the soil could speak after the unpleasant ploughing, it would say how pleased it is at the sight of its new, living, productive condition. This is so because it would now be ready and able to fulfill its purpose. The same is true in the soil of the soul. In order to fulfill its purpose, the soul must apply the unpleasant ploughing of mortification. The ugly weeds of pride, selfishness, hate, and unkindness must be uprooted.

The barrenness of complacency or laziness must be disturbed. Only then is your soul ready and able to fulfill its purpose, the production of Christ's life in you. "If anyone wishes to come after me, let him deny himself, take up his cross and follow me." St. Mark 8:34.

Give Us Something New

Labor's stand on the curtailment of work at the new YMCA was stated—or perhaps re-stated would be better—during a Central Labor Union meeting Sunday night.

There was nothing new in the statement that a work stoppage and picketing followed because union men on the job will not work with non-union employees on the project.

Everybody has known that for six months, or from the day this $455,000 building project for the youth of the community was halted.

The whole point of this matter is that for six months a project devoted to the health, recreation, character and happiness of the young people of Monroe County has been strangled.

The shame this has brought to all citizens in this region is senseless. We previously said in this column decision has spread far and wide so that the citizens of this community are faced with lasting disgrace.

Proof of that is to be found in an editorial reprinted below about the YMCA in Monday's Easton Express which said in part:

"It is clear in this case, as usual, the adults, rather than the children are the contributors to youth delinquency, and organized labor must bear a portion of the blame."

We gather from this editorial conclusion that not only organized labor is to blame, but all of us are guilty of making a contribution to delinquency.

The Daily Record and people generally, this newspaper is confident, are not interested in a re-statement of facts we already know about the YMCA work stoppage. We detest being disgraced.

What the people are demanding along with this newspaper, is something new. And by "new" we mean settlement of this issue without any more buck-passing, alibis, or what-have-you.

Labor has given us a warmed-over report. What have the "Y" directors to offer that is NEW.

Labor's Failures Seal Fate Of T-H Changes

(From The Easton Express)

Organized labor's inability to cope with elements of treason in its own ranks will have sealed the fate of proposed Taft-Hartley amendments during the current session of Congress. If any amendments are made, they will be more apt to strengthen the act in favor of the public and management, rather than liberalizing it to favor labor.

The recent constituency poll taken by Cong. William Widnall of New Jersey showed a strong public inclination to maintain the current features of the act which are designed to guard against abuses by labor, and, furthermore, to strengthen those provisions. And it is no wonder that the people have taken this attitude.

The International Longshoremen's Association's violent abuse of labor's rights in the New York waterfront strike is an excellent example. The American people are not going to look upon such circumstances with dispassion, and there are few who will stand by the I.L.A. Moreover, all organized labor is given a "black eye" by such conditions.

This is a broad example which can be scrutinized by every observant American. There are others, such as the labor dispute in Stroudsburg which has held up for six months a YMCA building project, which do not receive the wide attention given the I.L.A. disorder, but nevertheless are not atypical of the general situation.

Here is a circumstance where the people of a community have given nearly a half-million dollars for a project to not only benefit the general moral character of the area, but to afford the youngsters a healthy outlet for their drives, which otherwise might be expended in what is commonly labelled "juvenile delinquency."

It is clear that in this case, as usual, the adults, rather than the children are the contributors to youth delinquency, and organized labor must bear a portion of the blame. Elsewhere through the nation there are scores upon scores of circumstances similar to this, which constitute no credit to the mission of labor.

Definitions For A Setback

Readjustment — You take one aspirin per dose. You go easier on the heavy cream, stop mixing chicken breast in the dog's food and use the same ice in the old-fashioned cocktail second time. You check your bank account before ordering a station wagon, a speedboat, a yacht or an extra TV set for the guest room. You hold up the order for a super outdoor barbecue with a marble base. In deciding on a country house you ask, "How much?" before saying "I'll take." You look 30 seconds longer for a lost golf ball.

Mild recession — You take two aspirin. You use not only the same ice in the second drink but the same fruit. You decide that, even if the high gloss is off the limousine, you can get along with it another few months. You notice that the restaurant waiter keeps his eye on you when you use the catsup bottle. You cancel the order for an extra pair of pants with the new suit. You try to argue the schoolboy down to $5 from his $6 bid for moving the lawn in slow motion. The lunch wagon makes the hamburger a little thinner, thereby accomplishing the impossible. You bother to balance your check-book. The auto salesman gets up out of his chair when a customer enters. You check the gas, electric and oil bills. You decide the cat is drinking too much milk. You stop ordering sirloin steaks, lemon chiffon pie and breast of guinea hen with wine. You defer the haircut. You take a full minute to look for a lost golf ball.

Obvious Slump — You borrow the aspirin from a neighbor. You make the ice and fruit go a third time in the cocktails. A hole in your pants pocket becomes a major calamity. You start making your own gin. You notice that the restaurants don't put the catsup bottle within range. You cut your own lawn. You make the two-block journey to the drugstore ON FOOT! You use toothbrush twice, smoke cigars down to the very end and clean the band instead of buying a new hat. You overcome the fear of saying, "Three gallons this time, please." You wash your own car, pay no attention to the news your name has been posted at the Yacht Club set goes bad and if the TV set goes bad you try to fix it yourself. You look for a lost golf ball until darkness sets in.

Depression — You now need four aspirin per dose and your neighbor, from whom you try to borrow them, has to borrow them. You start making dandelion wine. You observe that your auto has one door off, the rear bumper is dragging and the windshield glass busted, but you exclaim, "Who cares?" You grow a beard as a matter of thrift. You sell your cocktail glasses at a rummage sale. You put the dog on table leftovers (if any) and give the cat to somebody with money. You ask the wife, "What did you do with the dollar I gave you last week?" You dispute the water bill, write your old socks rethreaded, write a letter to the editor, tell the icebox agent to go ahead and sue, shop around for second-hand worms when you go fishing, let the grass grow, and blow your stack at the news relatives are coming to dinner.

France Slated To Receive Another $1.5 Billions Aid

Washington—France is getting a lot more military aid than has been announced.

In both money and weapons it exceeds similar grants to any other country.

Despite major differences between the U. S. and France, notably over the latter's refusal to approve the European Defense Community, American assistance to France during this fiscal year, ending June 30, will reach a new high of $1,537,000,000.

This huge sum amounts to 78 percent of the cost of the desperate struggle against Communist aggression in Indo-China.

36 percent of France's entire military budget of around $4,150,000,000.

34 percent of the current American foreign aid program of $4,500,000,000.

France is slated to get another $1,500,000,000, in military assistance in the coming fiscal year.

That's what leaders of the congressional appropriations committees have been privately told is contemplated in the new foreign aid budget. It's being put into final shape in preparation before being sent to Congress with a special message from President Eisenhower.

Of the record-high outlay to France, all but $137,000,000 is for the anti-Red struggle in Indo-China. U. S. expenditures there are now more than three times those of France. Following is this significant breakdown:

U. S. payments to France to meet the cost of combat operations in Indo-China $442,857,133;

U. S. payments for the same purpose to the Associated States of Indo-China—which in turn hand over the money to France $365,714,285;

U. S. weapons and other military supplies for the French and native forces in Indo-China $571,528,572; Total U. S. share $1,389,099,990. French expenditures $388,571,428.

The other $137,000,000 in American aid consists of two main items: $87,000,000 to develop France's land and naval defenses in Europe and North Africa, and $50,000,000 for the French Air Force.

Notes: Nothing is coming out of Indo-China for publication except what French censors permit. Pentagon chiefs have learned from their own sources that French casualties are averaging about one to six of the Reds; that 14 French planes have been shot down or so badly damaged as to be unusable; and that nine light tanks have been destroyed. Also, a column of 5,000 French and native troops attempted to reinforce Dien Bien Phu, but ran into such massive opposition the march had to be abandoned.

"New Look" Row—If you have been puzzled by aspects of the furious wrangling over the Administration's "new look" military policy, you have nothing on some of the participants.

An instance of this occurred during a backstage clash between Senator Burnett Maybank (D., S. C.), militant Air Force champion, and Assistant Air Secretary James Douglas. Some of the hottest explosions over this issue are taking place at private meetings such as this one.

Douglas was explaining why the Air Force will not attain a strength of 138 Wings until July 1957 when Maybank interrupted.

"Is this new delay," the South Carolinian demanded, "due to the cutback in funds the Administration rammed through last year?"

"That is very difficult to answer," replied Douglas. "Personally, I'm doubtful whether the Air Force's program could have been advanced very much above what it is now if the additional funds had been appropriated. I doubt if any further production of airplanes could have been obtained regardless of how much money was available. In case of war, we can expand our production but not in peacetime."

"That's an amazing viewpoint," retorted Maybank. "Isn't our objective to be prepared so we won't have war? Shouldn't we produce enough planes to achieve that goal? Further, you not only cut out a lot of planes but you cut out a lot of pilots. Isn't that another reason why you had to cut back on the date when the Air Force will have 138 Wings?"

Douglas vigorously denied that. "We did not cut out a lot of pilots," he asserted. "We forced out only a handful of pilots."

At this point, Senator Allen Ellender (D., La.) jumped into the fray.

"Are you trying to tell us," he declared, "that if Congress had appropriated another $5,000,000,000 for the Air Force, as we wanted to do, that would not have advanced the development of our air strength?"

"I am convinced," said Douglas firmly, "that if Congress had appropriated that money it would have resulted in very little advancement in the present Air Force program."

"Do you honestly believe that?" exclaimed Ellender.

"I certainly do," said Douglas. "Then I want to tell you," declared Maybank, "that I voted for that additional money and I did so because General Alfred Gruenther, a close friend of President Eisenhower, told a group of us senators at a luncheon that we are not properly prepared in air strength in Europe. General Gruenther, who is the NATO commander in Europe and certainly knows what we need there, told us that we needed more air power to do everything else. He wanted this additional money, but certain people here in Washington didn't. One of them was Secretary Wilson."

Douglas dropped the argument at this point.

George Sokolsky Says...

Alger Hiss Does Not Lose His Pension Rights Because He Was Sent To Prison

A number of bills have been introduced in the House of Representatives to prevent Alger Hiss from receiving a pension when he comes out of prison. Should no legislation be passed, Hiss will get his pension.

H. R. 1239, introduced by W. Sterling Cole of New York, is designed to deny benefits, under Civil Service or other Federal retirement systems, to persons convicted of felonies involving improper use of their authority, power, influence or privileges as officers or employees of the United States. This measure is now before the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service.

Similar bills, now before the same Committee, are H. R. 3301, introduced by Representative Frank M. Karsten of Missouri, H. R. 6940, introduced by Mrs. Katharine St. George of New York, H. R. 7381, introduced by Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio, H. R. 7476, introduced by T. Milet Hand of New Jersey, and H. R. 8091, introduced by Richard H. Poff of Virginia.

Representative Kit Clardy of Michigan presented bill H. R. 5299, which deals specifically with Alger Hiss. It reads:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That no part of the civil-service retirement and disability fund shall be used to pay an annuity to Alger Hiss. The Civil Service Commission, within thirty days after the date of the enactment of this Act, shall return to the said Alger Hiss the total amount to his credit in such fund."

Alger Hiss does not lose his pension rights because he went to prison. This pension is a contractual arrangement between an employer and an employee, often both sides contributing thereto, by which at a stated period the beneficiary will receive a stated amount. Hiss paid his share into the pension fund and that money is his. The share that he paid in can be returned to him under the terms of some of these bills, but it would be interesting to cogitate on how the courts would hold in a matter that involves a breach of contract or an alteration of the terms of a contract by an ex post facto law.

The question would arise as to whether the Government, as an employer, may violate a contract, by act of legislation, which a private employer could not violate under any circumstances. As a matter of fact, the private employer is usually forced to set pension funds apart lest he not have them when required to meet his obligations. Surely, Hiss could get his own money back and it is probable that he would sue for the full amount and take his chances in the court.

In some of the legislation, a distinction is made between "retired pay" and "pension." No matter how one words it, if the prospective recipient of the benefit has entered into a contract and has paid into the fund, which is consideration, it raises a tricky question for the lawyers.

The subject is brought up only to show that it is not always so easy to do as one pleases in a political system in which the law and not the whims of man prevail. The simplest rule of life is "off with his head." But it may be your head or mine and we want protectives. Once the rights of man are recognized and protectives against whimsical tyranny are established, the rules that apply to the good apply equally to the wicked, and if the rules are relaxed so that the wicked may be punished, the good are placed in jeopardy. When it is said that this is a government of law, not of men, it means that the law applies to all, to the wicked as well as the good, and, of course, the wicked usually have the advantage.

Under such circumstances, it becomes increasingly difficult to work reprisals on such a man as Alger Hiss by withholding his pension. If he goes into court over such a question and should the court hold that despite his crime of perjury, he is entitled to his pension, he will get the money and he will use it as he chooses. Many lawyers say that the courts will have no alternative but to hold that his crime of perjury did not impair his contract as to a pension.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

A little farther down this column I want to talk about something serious. But, since it is rather difficult to hold people's attention with serious matters, I shall first tell you about two not-too-young New York lovers.

The woman had the man arrested on a grand larceny charge.

He had allegedly promised to marry her in 1952. But he didn't keep his promise, in spite of the fact that she said she had given him $11,000 and wasted three wedding gowns and a whole lot of patience, waiting for him to make good.

In addition—and this is probably one of the saddest features of the whole sad case—worrying so much about the matter, she had grown from size 10 to "stout," which as every woman knows, is no desirable size to have, particularly for one who now has to find herself a husband.

The man denied the whole business, of course. As a matter of fact, his attorney produced a three-page telegram written by the waiting-at-the-church bride which read in part, "Why am I such a joke? Are you going to marry me?"

Which question proved beyond the shadow of a doubt, the lawyer alleged, that there was no definite understanding between them. Else, why should he have asked WHETHER he was going to marry her.

The judge, completely mixed up, released the swain in $1,000 bail and set a time for a hearing. Now to the serious part.

The whole country is afraid of a depression, or whatever other name be used for the decline in production and buying which exists at the moment.

What causes this "depression"? I personally don't know. I am no economist.

But George B. Park, one of General Electric's advertising executives, told the Association of National Advertisers, what the reason is.

"Advance publicity for the business slump has been terrific," he said, "from both the rosy-hued optimists and the peddlers of gloom."

A nation can TALK and THINK itself into trouble, he said.

"We should know that a severe economic decline or dislocation does not have to happen, if advertising and promotion and selling will rise to accept the challenge."

It seems to me that in recent years advertising has gone far afield from its original purposes. Nowadays the emphasis is not on the merits of the merchandise advertised but on free trips to Europe, on free television sets, refrigerators and many other "absolutely free prizes," if you will only sit down and write a letter in 25 words or less on "Why I like Schmierola."

Furthermore, I am sure that people are getting tired of looking at gorgeous movie stars advertising this or that product and using that as a reason why they should use it, too. Women have mirrors, you know, and the mirror nowadays is the one thing that contains neither lanolin nor chlorophyll.

It seems to me that the depression is one of the best advertised articles in the country. Just a little more selling—and it will be here.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

Walter Johnson, immortal pitching star, was not only famed as the swiftest pitcher of his time, but was one of the most courteous. One evening he was hurrying to catch the opening of a show with his teammate, Clyde Milan, when a stranger tugged on his arm and engaged him in conversation. Milan waited impatiently until Mr. Walter finally rejoined him, then grumbled, "Well, be late. Who knew my sister," explained the Big Train. "Your sister?" echoed Milan. "I never knew you had one," Johnson answered, "I haven't."

A farmhand ambled up to the owner of the place and drawled, "Thought ye might like ter know the bull's got loose and been chasin' yer wife around the pasture fer the past half hour or so." The owner jumped to his feet in panic and shouted, "You blasted fool! Why have you waited so long to tell me?" "What's the matter, boss?" asked the farmhand in some surprise. "Your wife shortwinded?"

Well, Beete changed after that and so did we I guess. The cat never showed up again because Mrs. W. told Beete if it ever did she'd come over with a shotgun the first time he beat a kid. If you want to slap 'em down, do it with your open hand, she says, you're bigger'n they are.

Taking all things into consideration we learned quite a bit in that one-room school, what with Beete only having a sixth grade education himself and all. But I don't think we learned any more from him than he did from Mrs. W.

'Course there aren't any such things as rods of correction anymore in today's schools. But if there were I'd sure be happy to turn Mrs. W. loose on any leftover Beete's we might have around. Personally I don't think there's much point in beating a kid down. Sooner or later he's gonna get big enough to break the stick or quit school and then what have you got?

Correction

Rods Always Are Useless

By Leonard Randolph

The other day I got to thinking about "Beete" Corby and his "rod of correction" and about how different education is today. Beete was the teacher in the one-room school in Northern Missouri where I got my first four years of education.

He was a good-sized man with a temper to match. He didn't like kids much and if he had been a student or an older kid he would've been just another bully. But he sat behind the desk at the front of the room so they called him a teacher instead. "There wasn't one of us kids that didn't have black and blue marks on us one place or another from being hit with that long, hard stick that Beete kept with him all the time.

I was just about the only one that never really got whipped but that was only because he hit me on the head with it once and the stick sort of cracked in the middle and he never did it again. Well, to my way of thinking, education in Missouri took a giant leap on the day that Beete Corby had his run-in with Mrs. Wilfred Wilson Warren. Actually Beete's correction rod came up against Wilfred Wilson Warren Jr. first and then Beete got hit by Mrs. W.

Willie Jr. was a quiet little brat who used to walk home from school with me. He was crazy about books, loved school and never got into any trouble. Never, that is, until somebody wrote "Beete" on the blackboard. We didn't call Beete that to his face. Well, sir, when he sees this during the noon-hour he comes rushing outside and says: Who did this? and began shaking all the kids and of course after a couple of shakes all of them would say: No. Until he comes to Willie.

Like I said, Willie is a shy kid, partly because it is his nature and mainly because every time he gets real excited he also gets tongue-tied and stutters, which Beete knew darned well, having taught him for three years. But when he shakes Willie the poor kid can't say anything, of course, so Beete begin to beat at him with the rod of correction and he keeps this up for ten or 12 fast licks until Frank Robery up and admits that he wrote the name. That night I helped Willie get home by giving him a ride on our old plowhorse Daisy and when we got to his house Mrs. W. demanded to know what'd happened so I had to tell her. Well, she was as white as a sheet I'll tell you.

She was the same way when she arrived at the school next morning and lit into Beete Corby. Beete, she says, I understand you used a club on my boy yesterday. Is that right? And, of course, Beete says: No, he didn't use no club he just used a rod of correction. Well, says Mrs. W., it's all the same thing and I want you to know that me and the kid's paw don't like this at all and I have come to tell you so.

Now, Mrs. Warren, says Beete. Don't you now, Mrs. Warren me, says Mrs. W. You can talk all you want about sparin' the rod and sparin' the child but I ain't got no use for it. If you beat a kid with a crooked cane he's goin' to grow crooked. Look at Virgie Peters, (Virgie was a boy about 16 who was the half-wit around our neck of the woods. Folks said he was a perfectly normal kid until one day when he was nine and Beete beat him half-way to death.)

Well Beete made a mistake right here because he ordered Mrs. W. to leave the room but she didn't do it. Instead she picks up the rod of correction and begins whipping Beete on the backside until he finally runs out to get away from her. She was a pretty big woman you know. When Beete took off, most of us kids started putting our books away, but Mrs. W. put a stop to this.

Now look you bunch of hard-heads, she says, get back to work. You're here to get an education. You're doing it for yourselves and it don't make any difference who the teacher is you can still learn something. Most of you come from poor families, just like my Willie, where you got to skimp for every cent you need to buy tablet paper, and that money ain't meant to make you fit to throw soap to the hogs.

Well, Beete changed after that and so did we I guess. The cat never showed up again because Mrs. W. told Beete if it ever did she'd come over with a shotgun the first time he beat a kid. If you want to slap 'em down, do it with your open hand, she says, you're bigger'n they are.

Taking all things into consideration we learned quite a bit in that one-room school, what with Beete only having a sixth grade education himself and all. But I don't think we learned any more from him than he did from Mrs. W.

'Course there aren't any such things as rods of correction anymore in today's schools. But

Sellout Of Booths Expected For Hotel Show April 21-22

Three Groups To Sponsor Annual Event

A complete sellout of booths for the fifth annual Pocono Mountains Hotel Show is anticipated by next Tuesday, according to Harold Swenson, show director.

Swenson also announced appointment of a new co-sponsor for the show, which will be staged in the Penn-Stroud Hotel for the first time April 21 and 22. He said the Monroe County Liquor Dealers Association will collaborate with the Northeastern Pennsylvania Restaurant Association in backing the show in conjunction with the Vacation Bureau.

All three organizations will hold their annual dinner meetings at the hotel while the show is in progress, Swenson said. Liquor dealers will convene Tuesday, April 20; the restaurant association, Wednesday, April 21, and Vacation Bureau, Thursday, April 22.

Swenson is executive secretary of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce.

This year's exposition will be the largest ever held, with 104 booths lining the massive hotel garage area. Last year at Pocono Manor 77 booths were operated by purveyors to display their products. Swenson said last night only 25 booths remain unclaimed for this year's show.

Stated to open at 1 p.m. Wednesday, closing at 10 p.m., the program for the second day will occur from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Swenson said all Chamber of Commerce firms are qualified to exhibit if they carry one full membership with the Chamber, and only current and paid members of one of the sponsoring organizations will be permitted to exhibit.

The show is not open to the general public, Swenson said for clarification. It is open only to businessmen allied with hotel, restaurant operations, members of trade and professional associations, and by invitation.

Although the Penn-Stroud garage space never has been used for exhibition purposes before, Swenson said G. P. O'Neill, owner, is having the necessary lighting and electrical outlets installed and the area cleared and painted.

A large section of the huge garage has been used as carpentry and upholstery shops and storage for the hotel. It was reported. These shops and contents are being transferred to the Indian Queen Hotel now being readied as the new Town and Country Motor Lodge by O'Neill who recently acquired the property.

Guests' cars will be parked on Monroe St. while the show is in progress, Swenson said. Another advantage of the Penn-Stroud location is its convenience because of the three annual dinners planned for the hotel.

Exhibitors booked for the hotel show to date include:

Thomas C. Thomas, Woodlawn Farm Dairy, Duplicating Machines and Products, George Vrooman, Crystal Soda Water Co., Paint Service Center of Stroudsburg, Calvert Distillers, H. W. Coon, Brown Vintner Co., Hugh Ridall, Master Chef, Hartley Motion Picture Co., Snee and Sunday.

Industry-Education Panel Reviews Common Goals, Charts Cooperative Action

The mutual goals of education and industry, their inter-relationship and dependency, fields of cooperative action and methods of attainment were outlined last night by two educators and a member of industrial management to the Monroe County Industrial Management Club.

Prior to the three-member panel's discussion, these officers were elected:

Al Schaefer, Marsh's Foundry, president; William Schiebel, Tru-Matic, vice president; William Gordon, Ronson, secretary; William Metzgar, International Boiler Works, treasurer and Oram Hoffman, board of governors.

Willis Goddard, Line Material, conducted the business meeting. Horace G. Walters, Patterson-Kelley, introduced Lew Leffler, Line Material, the moderator on the general theme of "joint relations between schools and industry."

Objectives of industrial arts and vocational training programs were delineated by Earl Groner, superintendent of Stroudsburg Schools.

Emphasizing that "our interests are the same," Groner thanked industry for its assistance to education. He disclosed that Robert Hawik, industrial arts instructor in Stroudsburg had assisted in creating a definition for industrial arts.

He described this form of education as a phase of general education devoted to studies of tools, processes and products of industry.

In seeking to carry out that plan, Groner said, schools are faced with the problem of dealing with every type of individual. Educators know, for instance, that certain members of a graduating class will enter a profession, others will enter industry, others will do other things.

For that reason a general education pattern must be achieved to prepare the individual to enter, for instance, an industry. Plans, he said, must be flexible to help mould a pattern, not a finished product.

Industrial arts, for that reason, is started in the fourth grade so that in later years aptitudes are developed for more specific training, he said.

Vocational training, he said, involves specific training for a specific industrial field and is used mainly in large industry towns. Here the facilities are not available either from a financial standpoint or from standpoint of an instruction staff.

Education, Groner said, also attempts to train in human habits so that the individual can be picked up by industry for specific training for the task they want done.

Carl T. Secor, supervising principal of East Stroudsburg Schools, said schools and industry both are interested in producing the best possible product. With industry, however, a bad piece of material is tossed aside, but in schools the problem is to develop a field and develop the material to the best possible product.

Secor said it has always been his belief schools do not do enough for industry. He cited some fields in which schools could aid industry.

Schools must offer their facilities, their rooms, etc. They must

Council To Use Own Funds For Playgrounds

East Stroudsburg Council decided last night to run the borough playground in its own way, with its own money.

State financial aid — and the strings that always go with it — were jettisoned.

The council's thinking was summed up in an off-the-cuff opinion by borough secretary Sterling Cramer who made this statement during the discussion:

"I think the sooner the boroughs get a little independent and start operating within their means, boroughs and everyone else, the better off we'll be."

One by one other council members expressed themselves in agreement.

There is sufficient money to carry on a full playground program this year, said Cramer — without State help.

Effect of State regulations was to shorten the hours of employees considerably while raising salaries. In theory, it will cost the borough around $3,250 to go it alone this year. With State aid — also in theory — it would cost the borough $1,820 for about the same accommodations and service. However, Cramer said the money promised by the State in past "aid" programs hasn't yet been paid. Council members indicated the same standards of service and safety would be rigidly enforced as before.

The East Stroudsburg School Board had previously offered to contribute $1,800 to the playground if the borough was willing to pay for the playground without State help.

Last night, however, Councilman Verdon T. Gilliland, head of the playground committee, said the directors now reported there wasn't any money set up in the budget for it and they had to withdraw the offer.

Council's decision will be discussed at an adjourned meeting of the recreation board tonight.

Gilliland mentioned a decision of the fire company to retain the present "Civil Defense" fire truck (bought through the CD program) and council approved expenditure of around $1,200 to improve the truck. With new equipment it will be a 350-gallon tank booster truck.

Contracts for road surfacing materials went to Thomas P. Rogers Co. for at-the-quarry stone at $1.85; and to Shiffer's Bituminous Co. at 14.98 cents a gallon.

The borough moved a step closer to a municipal parking lot.

Hess was instructed to survey the William Masters proposed parking lot off Henry St. and Courtland St. at rear of Travis Hardware Store and Solicitor Charles R. Bensinger Jr. was told to prepare a prospective lease, for council approval.

The terms, as outlined informally at earlier meetings, were: the borough would obtain a long-term lease on the land, and would make all improvements; Masters would be paid nothing until meter revenue had brought in enough to pay off the cost of all improvements and purchase of the meters. Then, the borough and Masters would share in any net profit from the lot.

Council agreed to call for bids on curb and gutter work for Brookside Ave. shortly, and moved to have Superintendent Henry Leason complete re-grading of a part of Maple Ave. Hess estimated the latter cost at $700.

Governor Takes Collection, Distribution Of Funds Out Of County Chairmen's Hands

Harrisburg, (AP)—The Fine administration set out yesterday to funnel contributions from state workers directly into the Republican primary campaign organization.

Fred P. Hare Jr., administrative assistant to Gov. John S. Fine, said the contributions are being taken out of the hands of Republican county chairmen.

Kenneth Long, Leechburg, has been designated as collector of the contributions, said Hare who will himself coordinate the work of raising the funds.

Otto F. Messner, revenue secretary and Republican primary campaign chairman, said the new plan is not an attempt to bypass the campaign treasurer, C. Gilbert Hazlett, Kennett Square.

"Hazlett won't be in Harrisburg all the time so we'll have Long do some of the work," said Messner. Meanwhile, Sen. James H. Duff declined comment at Washington on a claim by Sen. John M. Walker that Duff is backing his candidacy for the GOP nomination for Superior Court.

Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Republican state chairman, likewise refused to commit himself on a statement made by Walker that Taylor also is backing his candidacy.

Hare said the funneling of contributions to the party organization would have the effect of blunting the campaign of Walker and another anti-organization candidate, William S. Livengood Jr., seeking a fifth term as secretary of internal affairs.

Both Walker and Livengood were bypassed when GOP organization leaders endorsed a statewide ticket headed by Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood for governor.

Hare said each county chairman seeking financial support from the statewide GOP primary organization would have to justify its budget.

He intimated that county chairmen unfriendly to Fine would be bypassed in distributing campaign funds on the local level.

Police Hold Correll Smith In Amarillo

An East Stroudsburg man wanted on parole violation charges was arrested by Amarillo, Texas, police last week and is being held there while Pennsylvania authorities investigate action they'll take in returning him here.

Harry Meiss, State parole office, said last night from his Wilkes-Barre office he learned from Texas police they were detaining Correll Smith whose last address was 32 S. Kistler St., East Stroudsburg.

Meiss said the information wired here did not state if Smith was being charged with any criminal act in Texas. He said a warrant had been forwarded to Amarillo to hold Smith, but if he was to stand trial there, a detainer would be filed against him and he would be extradited to Pennsylvania after completing his Texas sentence.

The 33-year-old Smith was sentenced to 6 to 12 years in Eastern Penitentiary on burglary and perjury charges by Monroe County court in 1949.

Meiss said he served four years, then was released on parole June 30, 1953, after his sentence was commuted.

Last August Smith was accused of taking between $50 and $600 from Arthur Lee, also of East Stroudsburg, but acquitted in September before Monroe County courts.

Roof Gutters Kept Clear Of Leaves, Twigs

By David G. Bareuther
AP Real Estate Editor

Spring is one of the best teachers a householder ever encounters when it comes to practical lessons on how to take care of a house. If March winds haven't ripped off a few shingles or wrenched a shutter from its hinges, you can count on April showers to show up your failure to clean out eaves troughs.

It doesn't take much of a rain to overflow roof gutters, stain house siding, soak into plaster and spoil wallpaper, or cut gullies in flower beds and lawns.

But one of the nice things about the season is the lengthening daylight that gives us more time for outdoor workouts.

Apartment dwellers always think that householders are slightly crazy for going in for these spring clean-up, paint-up, fix-up gymnastics—until the apartment dweller moves into a house of his own. The work seems to involve more satisfaction than just getting a chore done.

A home builder once criticized this department for calling attention to all the things that can go haywire around a house. He argued that people wouldn't want to buy houses if they knew too much about them.

Well, we contended that he might sell even more houses if he built them in such a way that a handyman would like to fix them up. But he probably builds his houses too much that way, anyway.

Back to the gutter—It doesn't take many twigs, leaves or pine needles to choke up a downspout. Winter winds always blow such rubbish on to a roof if there are any trees nearby. Wire baskets that you get at your hardware store and poke into the top of the leader will prevent clogs in an elbow of the drain, but they also help to build a dam in the gutter.

Of course, if carrying a ladder around the house gives you an appetite before breakfast, you can keep your roof gutters clean and avoid overflows. But the easiest way to do the job is to screen the gutters. It also cuts down tin-smith bills for repairing eaves troughs damaged by leaning ladders.

You can buy gutter grilles to snap over metal or wood eaves troughs, or make them yourself. One houghton variety, called to our attention this season, comes in five-foot lengths, which are overlapped just enough to eliminate gaps. They need no nails or bolts, being fastened with patent clips.

To make your own, the only tool you need is a pair of tinners' snips. Two materials are suitable—galvanized quarter-inch hardware mesh, which you can buy by the yard and cut to fit, and metal lath. The latter material is widely used for a plaster base and one or two sheets should be enough to make covers for all the gutters of an average-size house.

A metal lath man tells us that he recommends size 3.4 diamond mesh for this purpose. Cut it a little wide so you can spring it into the top of the gutter. You will notice that it comes coated with a black rust-inhibitive paint. This asphalt base paint is more than adequate protection when it is used indoors, but a wipe-down with turpentine and an added coat of black sash paint will give it further protection against constant exposure to the weather.

Heat Flow In Each Room Controlled By New System

By Edward S. Kitch
AP Newsfeatures

Chicago—A simple, self-modulating steam heating system, controlled by a thermostat in every room, now is a practical reality.

Its manufacturer, announcing the product for national distribution, describing it as an entirely new method of heating homes, offices and hospitals.

It consists of a compact heating unit recessed into a wall in each room. Low pressure steam—5 to 10 lbs.—is conveyed to each room unit by small 3/8-inch copper tubing.

A non-electric thermostat, which can be set from 40 to 90 degrees, opens a steam valve at the unit. The steam drives a turbine which turns a tiny blower fan before it reaches an automotive type copper core heat exchanger. A small spun glass air filter cleans the room air as it is fanned through the heater. The condensed steam vapor is returned to the boiler by a 1/4-inch copper tubing.

The system is the invention of Paul Swenson, of Cleveland, Ohio. He started work on his project in 1941. Since then, he has supervised installations of 3,500 units in the Cleveland area.

Name "Softwood" Often Misleading

Lumber dealers say many persons are deceived by the terms "softwood" and "hardwood". These names do not necessarily indicate the working quality of the lumber. The term "hardwood" is applied to all broad-leaved trees which shed their leaves in the fall, while the name "softwood" is given to all evergreens. Thus some "softwood" may be harder to work and more durable than some "hardwood" lumber.

Here's why you get the heat where it's needed

A coal furnace or boiler is designed so that 80% of the heat transfer is done in the combustion chamber. Roberts-Gordon Gas Burners are designed to meet this requirement, using the Spreader-Flame principle of burning. Flame is spread to the combustion walls at the grate level, and the hot gases scrub the walls all the way up. Maximum efficiency is obtained giving "More Heat per Fuel Dollar".

International Lions Officer Speaks At Regional Meeting

"What do men derive from Lionism that inspires them to faithful service and attendance year after year and from one decade to another?"

It is because, in Lionism, they find a way to touch the great pulsating, suffering heart of the world. Man is not basically cruel and harsh. He is possessed by the urge to render aid and relief to those in distress. This is a basic urge and not a passing phenomenon.

"Man's mission in life is to serve others and in Lionism he finds the ideal opportunity for work of this kind. It is, unhappily, natural for man to hate, fear and distrust many of the things he does not understand and Lionism makes for loyalty and understanding."

Such was the analysis of International Counsellor Dudley Simms of Charleston, W. Va., who was the main speaker last night at the Penn-Stroud ballroom. The occasion was the annual party of Deputy District Governor Walter Hicks of South Easton, Region 2, District 14-K.

The party was mainly complimentary to District Governor Sidney Effross of Portland, who was praised for the work he has done in the district and presented with a set of golf clubs. He spoke briefly thanking the deputy district governor and all present for the gift and also for support during his administration.

The gathering drew 250 diners from many clubs of the district and nearby sections.

The East Bangor Quartet sang two solos during an intermission in the speaking.

William Hinton, president of the Stroudsburg club, welcomed the guests.

Deputy District Governor Hicks presided. International Director Joseph O'Donnell of Wilkes-Barre, served as toastmaster.

He introduced Max Lester, father of District Governor Effross and Sidney's brother-in-law.

International Counsellors Elton Hall, Amos Strauss, Arthur Henry and Arthur Nailor spoke briefly. Former District Governor Robert Miller of Tamaqua made a plea for early registration for the coming international convention in New York City.

International Director Simms paid a tribute to Governor Effross and to the Lions of this area for the work they are doing in the club.

Fifty U. S. Army auditors started a 2½-week supervisory training course at the Indian Queen Hotel, Stroudsburg, this week. Another school for an equal number of men is scheduled to open at the hotel May 10.

Designed to train in-charge auditors so they may qualify for promotional increases in the future, the school first opened in Washington, D. C., in January with 28 in the class.

Stroudsburg was selected, according to Clark Simpson of Washington, who is staff manager, because it offers proper housing facilities for the school's duration, the environment is quiet to permit continual study by participants, and because no commuting problems result once all auditors report for school.

Simpson was joined here Monday and yesterday by Col. Robert Davis, director of the New York region for the Army Auditing Agency, and Jacob Rubin, deputy director.

For the remainder of the course the school is being supervised by Harold Albertson, assistant to Simpson.

Among the instructors are W. L. Campfield of the San Francisco, Calif., regional office and B. Lynn, of the New York headquarters.

The men currently comprising the first group include those from Army Auditing Agencies in New York-Philadelphia region, which takes in all of New England, west to Ohio and south through Maryland.

On May 10 the classes will start for auditors in Southern U. S. offices. About 50 are expected to take part in that 2½ week program.

Simpson said class work begins at 8 a. m. and continues until 5 p. m. Men are assigned from two to four hours of work at night.

Dr. Harold S. Pond, Jr. will be out of town April 3 through April 11, inclusive.—Adv.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Perhaps helicopters would be the answer to a reporter's problems in parking on a wet Tuesday night. Certainly cars aren't.

There may be sufficient parking place for people who can afford the time to go early, but for someone who must ration her visits to fit in with the highlights of programs, parking is non-existent.

Last night, I could sympathize with ghosts, condemned to wander in outer space, as I drifted through the falling rain past the college auditorium where undoubtedly a large crowd, warm and dry, were listening to music; and past the Stroud Community House where the Junior Women and their guests were joining in laughter and appreciation of John Atherton's program.

Even more bitter was the thought that as I vainly circled the blocks, hoping somebody would go home and leave a parking place, the coffee was undoubtedly perking in the kitchens and the committees were tiptoeing back and forth with sandwiches and lighting the candles on tea tables.

Ghosts, perhaps don't get hungry, but reporters do. And while their constituent parts don't contain any large amounts of soluble sugar, they are susceptible to wet feet. April, April, laugh your girlish laughter—but parking the first Tuesday in April is no laughing matter.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:15 a. m.

Soroptimists Meet Thursday

The Stroudsburg Soroptimist Club will have a business meeting on Thursday night at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Lillian Wagner, 88 Ananionk St., East Stroudsburg.

At that time final plans will be made for the Spring Regional Conference to be held in Wheeling, West Virginia on May 1 and 2. Several members of the local club are planning to attend.

Subscribe to The Daily Record.

Any way you look at it, Friday will be a memorable day for Wyckoff customers. It will be a day of flamboyant color... memorable music... good fun... and light-hearted remembrance. This is true, whether they participate in our excursion to the Circus at Madison Square Garden, or choose to remain at home and view the evening fashion show at Stroudsburg High School auditorium.

In a general way, all of us at Wyckoff's are pleasantly excited about both events. Individually, we are intensely interested in at least one of them, depending upon which, we can attend. To all of us, the only perfect answer would be to attend both... and there are some who are perfectly confident that this might be managed.

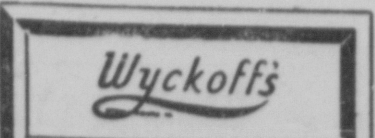

The circus costs more, of course. It costs $8 if you are an adult; six dollars if you are under twelve. And what do you get for this expenditure? A trip into Never, Never Land, that's all. A boy ride into a world that's out of this world, if you know what I mean—a world peopled by lovely ladies in spangles, elephants wearing fabulous creations by well known designers, freaks who gaze sadly into space as you peer into their faces, fire eaters who look scornfully through their audience of popcorn chewing doubters, and lions that gaze stonily between the bars of their cage and appear to be waiting... waiting...

What do you get for your circus dollars? A giddy whirl on the high trapeze, as you follow the perilous movements of an artist, working without a net; a sense of frustration, mingled with pity and amusement, at the frantic antics of a pathetic tramp clown, trying to sweep up the spotlight and hide it forever in a trash can; an afternoon crowded with emotion, and sprinkled liberally with laughter; several hours of tinsel, glitter, and make-believe more monstrous than anything you've ever seen before.

Just a few minutes ago my telephone rang and Gracie Grace informed me that we have sold far more circus tickets than she'd anticipated. One bus is already filled, and there are numerous reservations for a second bus. Sixteen bus seats, are still available, but the deadline on ticket sales, is NOON TODAY. This means that ALL money should be in by that time. Also, it is suggested that everyone pack a box lunch to enjoy before circus time. Okay?

Now—what about the fashion show? That costs only $1, and will benefit the YMCA building fund. For this sum you will see 40 of our local women and children—some of them semi-professional models—wearing everything from the latest in swim suits to evening attire. You will also see $10,000 worth of fabulous creations brought direct from the Paris salons of the world's outstanding designers, and you will hear Betty Green, distinguished fashion authority and writer, in a highly informative commentary that will guide you in selecting your personal wardrobe. You will be entertained by Cornelia Stabler Gillam in two numbers—one original and one based on the Sears and Roebuck catalogue, and you'll receive a free sample of a wonderful new perfume. Youngest of the models, by the way will be Doug Gordon's son and daughter, Stevie and Leslie.

Any way you look at it, Friday will be a memorable day for Wyckoff customers. How about it, folks—wanna buy a ticket?

Hail Lauds Ike In Talk To Women

Washington (AP) — Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said last night the Eisenhower administration has "stopped Communist aggression abroad" and has made further Red advances "so risky even the Kremlin will think twice before embarking on them."

Defining "a healthy economy" and the halting of Communism as the two basic issues of this year's campaign for control of Congress, Hall said in an address at a Republican women's conference here:

"At home our forthright methods of handling subversion have restored national confidence after two decades of expensive security blindness."

Hall said that President Eisenhower's legislative program contains "ample built-in guarantees against economic distress." He said the program "spells more jobs, sounder industry, security for small business."

Asserting that stopgap proposals won't work, the GOP chairman said:

"That is why the Eisenhower administration regards a healthy economy as the basic issue of 1954. We cannot will not settle for less."

Hall and Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) urged the GOP women to get out and work to increase the party's slender margin of control of Congress.

Dirksen said the Republicans had come back after 20 years "to accept and improve the social changes of the last 20 years" by removing the stain of Socialism.

But if the GOP loses control of Congress, he said it will be unable to carry out its program.

A Puerto Rican constitution modeled on that of the United States was approved by the U. S. Congress and a vote of the Puerto Rican people in 1952.

Another Meeting Called To Discuss Jointure Of Schools In Bangor Area

Bangor—A widely-discussed and controversial idea for jointure in State Belt area schools took two directions last night.

One—Elmer Sayre, chairman of the original steering committee for jointure, said a new meeting has been called for Thursday, April 15.

Two—East Bangor school board reaffirmed its opposition to jointure with Bangor and Roseto included; said it still favors a five-district group.

Sayre, in his announcement last night, said that the steering committee meeting, to be held in Bangor High School, has been called due to increased public pressure on behalf of jointure of all seven districts.

Sayre noted that some citizens groups have appeared before township boards requesting that the seven-district joint school system be approved.

At the East Bangor school board meeting three men appeared. They were Ronald Cann, Thomas Jones and Raymond Williams. All said they represented a citizens' committee.

All expressed themselves in favor of the jointure with Bangor and Roseto included.

The board again voted in favor of a jointure of East Bangor, Upper and Lower Mount Bethel, Washington Townships and Portland. Directors also favor erection of a joint junior-senior high school.

The Washington Township School Board agreed Monday night to meet with the Bangor board to discuss a jointure, or possibly merger, of area schools.

Court Gives Second Chance To Parolee

William Chalmers, 34, Philadelphia, was given a "second chance" by the court in Monroe County yesterday after being brought before President Judge Fred W. Davis for violating terms of his parole.

Chalmers had failed to give the probation officer notice of where he was staying and what his salary was. He had been instructed to do that when paroled from a charge of assault and battery against his wife earlier.

Chalmers was ordered to pay the costs of the court proceedings and to contribute as much as possible to the support of his family.

August "Augie" Lockwitch, well known golfer in the Monroe County area, has been named chairman of the Glen Brook Country Club golf committee, it was announced yesterday by Marty Baldwin, club president.

The appointment carries through the 1954 season. Other members of the golf committee are Cliff Heller, Jerry Stoffel, John Watt and Chet Ogradoski. Ogradoski will be shooting for his third straight club championship during the coming summer months.

Lockwitch will be captain of the Glen Brook team in the newly formed Lehigh Valley Golf League. He will also set up the various tournaments and direct the establishment of local rules on the Glen Brook course.

Eight Entries

The Lehigh Valley League will be made up of eight clubs, including Glen Brook.

Also included in the new circuit are Harker's Hollow, Green Pond, Mahoning Valley, Berkleigh, Lehigh and Brookside.

Team match plans call for eight members to campaign for each club. Four of the players will play on a foreign course, while the other four players at home, with opposition from the same rival club. Lockwitch, who in the past has won several Glen Brook club championships, recently attended a meeting of the Lehigh Golf Association.

Indians Scalp Giants, 10-5

New Orleans (AP)—The Cleveland Indians made it three in a row over the New York Giants by winning 10-5 before a crowd of 8,000 yesterday.

Clincher

A two-run homer by Al Rosen, the American League's most valuable player, broke a two-all tie in the fifth inning and put the Indians ahead to stay.

Redlegs Crush Senators, 18-1

Lynchburg, Va. (AP)—The Cincinnati batting barrage blasted 20 hits, including three homers, off Washington yesterday for a lopsided 18-1 victory.

Good Pitching

Howie Judson held the Senators to four hits in six innings, and rookie George Zuverink, who pitched for Indianapolis last season, reeled off three hitless frames.

Tatum To Direct All-Stars

Chicago (AP)—Jim Tatum, coach of the Maryland team voted tops in the 1953 Associated Press football poll, yesterday was named to direct the College All-Stars against the Detroit Lions at Soldier Field the night of August 13.

Williams' Pharmacy Bows In Brooks' Action

Catholic Youth Center Dumps Local Entry

Scranton—Catholic Youth Center presented a strong second half here at the Scranton YMCA last night to eliminate Williams' Pharmacy from the Brooks' Invitation Basketball Tournament, 70-39.

The Pharmacy five earned an invitation to the tournament by finishing second in the Pocono Mountains League during the campaign just completed.

Williams' contingent actually held a one-point advantage at the halfway mark, but couldn't stand the terrific pressure administered by the Scranton club in the second half.

The CYC machine moved out in front at the end of the first period, 13-12, but Williams' Pharmacy came back strong to hold a 14-12 advantage in the second quarter and enjoy a 26-25 lead at the half-way mark.

Spurt

Field goals were common place for the CYC contingent in the second half, as the home team dominated the third round, 28-6, and then made certain of victory with a 17-7 bulge in the last quarter.

The CYC contingent held a 29-15 edge in field goals and made good on 12 of 23 foul shots. The Pharmacy engers converted only nine of 22 shots from the foul line.

A decided advantage in height proved a major factor in the CYC victory.

Norman Lewis, Jim "Cocky" Wilson and John Waltz each scored eight points to lead the Pharmacy attack, while Morris, Schimmel, O'Connor and Cullen all tallied in double figures for the winning aggregation.

Honesdale took the measure of Scranton Lace in the first of two tournament games played last night, 59-52.

Hogan Reported Set For Masters Play

Augusta, Ga. (AP)—If you discount Ben Hogan's chances for an unprecedented repeat victory, about half the 83 golfers in the field automatically become eligible for selection as possible winners in the 18th Masters Tournament.

But you never can discount Hogan. That's one of the things that makes picking a winner difficult.

There probably hasn't been a time since the Masters was instituted in 1934 that one man has dominated the field the way Hogan does now.

Ben hasn't been out grabbing for the weekly purses like most of the 60 or so professionals who'll start play tomorrow in this prestige-loaded tournament. That might count against anyone else, but Hogan has his own ways of sharpening his game for competition.

He has been here more than a week, practicing diligently over the big, beautiful Augusta National Course.

The strictly unofficial reports of his scores on practice rounds indicate he's shooting the same kind of golf he did a year ago when he set the tournament record of 274.

But no player ever has won the Masters twice in succession. And only one, Ben's friend and biographer, Jimmy Demaret, ever has achieved the third victory Hogan is aiming for.

In addition, the winter tournament records indicate there are a good many pros and even some amateurs in the field who can score the 72-hole total of 280 that ordinarily is the winning score.

Since the winter tour started at Los Angeles in January, only one player has won two tournaments. He is little Bob Toski of Livingston, N. J., who only got

Former Ring Challenger Drops Dead

Spokane, Wash. (AP)—"Tiger Jack" Fox, who made a small fortune as a light heavyweight boxer and came close to the title in 1939, dropped dead of a heart attack yesterday, broke and half paralyzed.

The Tiger collapsed at the door of a 25-cent theater where he went almost daily to rest a weary body left crippled by a stroke two years ago. He was dead when help arrived.

His was the familiar story of a great athlete who spent money freely while he had it, wouldn't quit when the time was right and wound up a pitiful figure helped along by friends who knew him when.

Uphill Fight

He came out of an Indiana blacksmith shop in 1932 and in 14 years as an able light heavyweight won 111 fights, 73 by knockouts, and lost just 14. His 24 first round KO's were second in number only to Jack Dempsey.

Fox, a lean Negro, fought Melio Bettina in Madison Square Garden in 1939 for the light heavyweight championship. Early in the fight, it looked as if the crown would be his.

But Fox, who had been stabbed with a 10-inch blade in a New York fracas two months before, couldn't hold out. Bettina won a technical knockout in the ninth round.

Auto Race Field Set

Flemington, N. J.—Jim Whitman, young speedster from Paramus, is another Jerseyite out to raise state colors at the Flemington Fairgrounds Sunday afternoon.

Entered for the season's opening AAA auto race here, Whitman will again shoot his own Whitman Special car against the country's fastest Offenhausen. He is a newcomer to the professional AAA ranks this season.

Confident

The Paramus youngsters got his start with the AAA at Reading, Pa., recently, and although not a winner, he did make a credible debut. He was fifth in the 10-lap consolation race, which had three noted "Offies" among the starters.

Whitman has been busy overhauling his car for Sunday and he feels confident he can better his previous showing against the stars.

Triple Dead Heat Marks Laurel Opener

Laurel, Md. (AP)—Maryland's first triple dead heat and fifth in the United States since use of the photo finish camera about 20 years ago occurred yesterday in the first race at Laurel.

The three-way tie was for third place and marked the second time a track paid off on two of them on the odds board.

Almost

It almost turned out to be the first four-way tie in racing history when Mildale missed by only a nose getting into the deadlock for third.

The three noses on the wire belonged to Noble Idea, Weirid Music and Happy Bull. Noble Idea paid $6.40, Weirid Music $2.80 and Happy Bull $3.60.

Hackensack was virtually overlooked as winner of the race among 12 horses.

The first and only other triple deadheat for show was at Bay Meadows in 1937.

Lehigh Names First Pitcher

Bethlehem—Frank Yurek, Dunellen, N. J., business administration junior, will draw the pitching assignment when Lehigh University's baseball squad opens its 70th consecutive season at 3 p.m. this afternoon in Taylor Stadium against the Swarthmore College nine. Last year, Yurek won three and lost two with a 3.02 earned run average.

After three weeks of practice, Coach Tony Packer has cut his squad of 20 players, including 10 sophomores, nine juniors and one senior.

Chief Problem

The chief problem facing Packer in his second year as varsity baseball coach is the development of a pitching staff. Yurek is the only veteran letterman among the six candidates.

Ron Jirsa, Baltimore, Md., who posted a 4-4 record and a respectable 2.19 earned-run average last spring, will be missing from the lineup this year; having been drafted for Army duty. Jirsa was the strike-out leader by fanning 73 hitters in 70 innings.

Two sophomores, who may be the answer to the pitching problem, are Dick Stefanik, Bethlehem right-hander; and Pete Danforth, Shrewsbury, Mass. left-hander. Packer also expects to switch Tommy Gunn, senior centerfielder, to mound duty.

Detroit Clips Montreal, 3-1

Detroit (AP)—Incensed at his own failure, Maurice "Rocket" Richard scored twice as the Montreal Canadiens capitalized on twin penalties and defeated the Detroit Red Wings 3-1 last night to square their Stanley Cup playoff series at a game apiece.

Advantage

Stepping into the favorite's role in the best-of-seven series, the Canadiens scored all their goals within 56 seconds of the first period—the first two coming while Detroit was two men short and the third while the Red Wings were one man short.

Globetrotters Win

Indianapolis (AP)—The Harlem Globetrotters, performing even better than their hilarious best on a sloshing wet floor laid over an ice rink, splashed to a 63-53 victory over the College All Stars here last night.

Life of Riley

George Condrick's reward for two winning seasons as a pitcher with Rochester, of the class "AAA" International League, was demotion to Houston, of the class "AA" Texas League last week. George, a winter resident of Tannersville and former star with the Stroudsburg Poconos, had good records in the past two campaigns, but still was sold this spring. Condrick remains the property of the St. Louis Cardinals. George at least won't have to worry about the cold spring weather in Rochester this year.

Condrick may get off to a fast start in the warm climate of Texas and the weather may help prevent further arm trouble such as that which plagued the Tannersville resident in the fading weeks of last season. George might also remember that the parent Cardinals make as many recalls from Houston as Rochester, so the demotion is actually in classification of the two leagues and not necessarily in ability. Condrick also was a member of the San Juan club in the Puerto Rico League last winter.

In answer to a query — Ray Steele pitched for Williamsport, of the class "A" Eastern League, and St. Hyacinthe, of the class "C" Provincial League, after being optioned by Ottawa, of the International League, last spring. Steele's top performance in pro ball was last Sunday, when the former East Stroudsburg High star blanked the New York Yankees for three innings. Ray is now the property of the Savannah Indians, of the class "A" South Atlantic League. Steele was also optioned by Ottawa this spring.

According to semi-official news reaching this column, Mike Rubish, former Glen Brook Country Club pro, will fill a similar position at the new Locust Valley Country Club, near Cooperstown. The new course, to be 18 holes, is being built on the old Smith estate, Mike, a former football star with the University of North Carolina and the Washington Redskins was pro at Glen Brook for two years, but remained at home, Raleigh, N. C. last summer. His host of friends in this area wish the likeable golfer good of success.

Melvin "Milt" Johnson, former basketball star at Pocono High and later in the Pocono Mountains Basketball League, has been discharged from the Army and is now living in Tannersville. Johnson, who served in both Japan and Korea, is launching an electrical business in the area. Clair Bloss, a former basketball and baseball standout at Pocono High, and in the Pocono Mountains Leagues, both diamond and court, celebrated his 30th birthday on Monday of this week. Pfc. Al Nozi, a resident of Dunmore and former infielder with the Stroudsburg Poconos, is currently serving with the 59th Ordnance Group in Korea.

Trouble seems to be heaping itself on the Pocono Mountains Association, a baseball circuit that operated in both Monroe and Wayne County last summer. Newfoundland, according to talk making the rounds at the present time, doesn't plan to play in either the Association or the Wayne County League this season. For one reason or another several players have decided to campaign elsewhere. Dick Dunning, who has won the batting crown in the Association several times, will hold down third base for Al Crawford's Hawkeye entry in the Wayne County League.

Bill "Lefty" Herring, former East Stroudsburg State Teachers College baseball star, is reported leaving Newfoundland for the Barrett entry in the Pocono Mountains League. Bill is scheduled to be married in Maryland on Saturday. Al Caruth, former Newfoundland outfielder, and Paul Smith, combination catcher-outfielder, will be members of the Hamilton roster, in the Wayne County circuit. Ironically, the Junior League team was formed with the idea in mind that it would eventually produce players for the "town" team. Now—no town team. Tobihanna has also left the PMA ranks.

The track meet between ESSTC and West Chester, which has been pending, will be held on the Normal Hill track on Wednesday, April 21, the same afternoon East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg High schools clash in baseball. April 21 is a big day, as the Blue Mountain Basketball League will hold its banquet at the Tatamy Fire House on the same date. The selection of Maurice Schleicher, Slatington's towering center, on the fifth Associated Press all-state team should be well received in the Lehigh Valley. Merrill Eckhart, also of Slatington, and Charley German, Whitehall, won honorable mention on the same squad.

Marty Baldwin, well known local sportsman and director of the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association Clinic, is hard at work making ready for the 10th annual clinic at ESSTC in June. Programs for the affair are expected to be printed within the next several days. Dr. Frank Maguire, Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association Commissioner of officials, will deliver a non-athletic talk to the St. Matthew's Holy Name Society tonight.

Former North Atlantic League Star Expected To Be Second String Catcher For White Sox

Editor's Note—This is the tenth in a series of articles covering major league teams prior to the opening of the official American and National League pennant races.

By Jack Hand

Tampa, Fla. (AP) — Paul Richards, a leading disciple of the school that thinks "the Yankees can be beaten," believes only extra good pitching can do the trick. He has high hopes that his Chicago White Sox staff can do the job.

"You can't hope to match the Yankees position for position," said Richards. "You can't match Yogi Berra. You can't match their infield or their outfield. You can only hope for that extra good pitching."

Nucleus

With Billy Pierce (18-12) and Virgil Trucks (20-10), Richards has a solid nucleus. Jack Harshman, a former New York Giant who had a 23-7 record at Nashville last season, is a key man. Harshman, a 26-year-old left-hander, won 42 games since last spring, counting 15 with San Juan in the Puerto Rican Winter League.

Bob Keegan (7-5), a former Yankee farmhand, is Richards' fourth starter although he has been having his usual spring arm trouble. Cubans Mike Fornieles

(8-7) and Sandy Consuegra (7-5) figure for spot duty. Don Johnson (15-12) at Toronto, back for another whirl after trials with the Yankees, St. Louis and Washington, has a good chance to make it.

Harry Dorish (10-6), who appeared in 56 games in '53, will share the bullpen work with Luis Aloma (2-0) when a right-hander is needed. Richards hopes "Jockey" Thompson (10-4 at Baltimore), the ex-Phil, can take care of the southpaw relief chores.

Change

Minnie Minoos, the club's best hitter, has moved in from left field again to handle third base. Cass Michaels, acquired from Philadelphia, had a whirl at third but is believed lacking the drive and fire needed for a pennant contender.

Ferris Fain who slumped to .256 after winning the batting championship in 1951 and 1952 at Philadelphia, is back at first base. During the winter there was talk he might go to the outfield.

Nelson Fox on second and "Chico" Carrasquel at short round out the infield. Marty Marion, New Sox coach, has been working on Fox, helping him pivot on the double play. Johnny Lipon and Fred Marsh will be the spares.

Johnny Groth's emergency appendectomy upset the outfield plans. Richards figured on the former St. Louis Brown and Detroit Tiger, to play center with Jim Rivera in right. Groth is expected to be ready for opening day but Richards can't be certain.

Replacement

Bob Boyd, brought up from the minors to replace Fain after he broke his hand in a fight, may take over Minoos' old job in left. Rivera will be in center, at least until Groth returns, and Willard Marshall, acquired from Cincinnati will be in right. Bill Wilson, a .311 power hitter at Memphis, must prove he can hit big league pitching. Ed Stewart, a holdover, will pinch hit and play utility roles.

Sherm Lollar is the first string catcher but Carl Sawatski, melted down from his Chicago Cub days, may do the job when a left-handed batter is needed. Bob "Red" Wilson is the number three man.

Sawatski began his professional baseball career with Bloomington, N. J., a member of the now defunct class "D" North Atlantic League. The Stroudsburg Poconos were in the same circuit.

Cain Hoy Hit Again

New York (AP) — Tragedy struck the Cain Hoy stable again yesterday and cut down another of Harry F. Guggenheim's hopefuls for the Kentucky Derby.

Big Crest, a three-year-old which finished third in the Florida Derby, bowed a tendon in training at Lexington, Ky., and will be out of the Louisville classic May 1.

Favorite

Previously Turn-To, the future book favorite for the Derby, and Black Star, a good-looking three-year-old bought from Aga Khan, had suffered a similar fate.

Last year Guggenheim's Kentucky Derby winner, Dark Star, the only horse to beat the great Native Dancer, bowed a tendon in the Preakness stakes at Baltimore and had to be retired.

Bangor To Open Baseball Season Tuesday

Bangor — Bangor High School will open its baseball season next Tuesday by playing a pre-season exhibition with Belvidere High, here at Memorial Park. This contest will be one of four non-league Northampton League outings for the Slaters.

Earl Rader, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, will be launching his coaching career at Bangor this spring, replacing Dave Thomas, veteran baseball mentor who has retired to devote more time to his additional duties of assistant principal at Bangor High. Rader has been sending his pupils through their paces for the past three weeks.

Last year, Bangor finished in a tie for first place in the league with Nazareth which brought about a playoff at Pen Argyl, which was won by Nazareth.

Candidates

This year's candidates line up like this: catcher, a junior, lefty Ralph "Barny" Stenlake, a second-stringer for two years, gets the nod over two newcomers, sophomore Allie Joe Bloodworth and Charles Woolley, a freshman. All three present good size behind the plate. There are three candidates for first base — all sophomores. Thus far, Verne Smith has shown the most promise but the starting assignment may go to Donald Keat, who is the only one of the trio (with previous experience though it was somewhat limited. Keith Jones rounds out the trio. At second base, Coach Rader has returning letterman and senior, Bob Welser, who is being pushed hard by a promising freshman, Glenwood Heard. Heard may get to see quite a bit of action.

At the shortstop position, another veteran returns. Although he did not play for the high school line, Dale LaBar did covet at this position for the junior American Legion nine last season. LaBar is a senior. Another candidate for shortstop is diminutive Ray Kressler, a sophomore.

Rodney Miller, an all-around candidate, two-year letterman and senior, is scheduled to play third base. Miller has also been seen at shortstop, first base, in the outfield and behind the plate. The other candidate at the hot corner is a freshman, J. L. "Jabby" Williams. A junior, Louis Casciano; sophomore Jack Stenlake and another junior, Duane Miller lead a host of outfield candidates. Of the three, Stenlake is the only letterman but Casciano is not without experience having played Junior American Legion ball. Casciano will start in left with Miller in rightfield and Stenlake in the middle gardens. Battling for the reserve outfield positions are sophomores Donald Evans, Kermit LaBar, diminutive Dale Eden, and freshmen Bob Hill and Bob Butz.

Power

Bangor finds an over-balance in right-handed batters. Of all the aforementioned candidates, Evans is the only left-handed swinger. However, on the pitching staff, there is an over-balance of left-handed throwers. Of the five candidates, three are southpaws. The southpaws include returning veterans Rodney Taylor, a senior, Larry Raph, a junior, and a very promising newcomer Gary Strauss, a sophomore. Veteran observers in local baseball circles predict a promising future for young Strauss who, despite limited experience, shows a great deal of poise and savvy. The two-right-handed flingers are also youngsters with plenty of promise. They are both freshmen—Bob Stansbury and Hill, also an outfielder.

Yanks Narrowly Miss Tragedy Prior To Exhibition Contest

Greensboro, N. C. (AP)—The world champion New York Yankees received a triple scare yesterday when first baseman Eddie Robinson was hospitalized with a kidney attack and infielder Gil McDougald and pitcher Allie Reynolds were hit by balls in practice.

Surviving Slate Belt Scores Announced

Bangor — A complete list of 32 jugglers who advanced beyond the first round of the Slate Belt Singles Championship, here at the Slate Belt Bowling Center last weekend, was released yesterday. Jim Malazzo led the list with a 2389 total, while Les Henning and Bob Schultz were tied for the second spot with a 2301 count.

Second round action, like the preliminary round, will consist of 12 games and will be rolled on two different dates. Eight games will be held on Saturday of this week, while the other four games will be featured on Saturday, April 17. A total of 61 legions entered the first round activity.

Commercial 'B' Sated

Commercial "B" League bowling will take place at Harmon's Recreation today, at 7 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Koren Home Improvement vs. Line Material.
Alleys three and four—Eagles vs. Ray Arnold.
Alleys five and six—E. S. Beverage vs. Stroudsburg Auto Body.

Everything turned out all right, however, even though Robinson and McDougald spent a short time in the hospital.

Both were discharged after X-rays and treatment and permitted to continue the northward journey with the team. Reynolds sustained a knee injury but didn't require medical attention.

Pains

Robinson complained of kidney pains when the Yankees arrived here from Charlotte yesterday morning and was sent to the hospital immediately. The trouble was diagnosed as a kidney stone.

He obtained relief a couple of hours after being admitted and Dr. C. T. Whittington said it was probable that he had passed the stone. The 32-year-old infielder had a previous history of the ailment, having had such an attack while barnstorming in Honolulu last fall.

McDougald was hit on the right side of the rear of the head by a pitch in batting practice and suffered a concussion. Jim McDonald threw the ball. X-rays showed no damage had been done.

Reynolds was hurt while pitching batting practice. A liner from the bat of catcher Charley Silvera struck him on the left knee.

A's Outlast Pirates, 17-10

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 17-10 yesterday in an exhibition contest marked by 37 hits—nine of them home runs.

Wild Battle

The Athletics collected 21 hits off Pirate hurlers Don Dangelis, Nelson King and Lino Donoso. The Pirates gathered 16 hits off Alex Kellner who went the distance.

Two Matches Listed

Worthington Mower League jugglers roll on the George N. Kemp American Legion Post alleys today, at 7 p.m. Schedule follows:
Alleys one and two—Bears vs. Rams.
Alleys three and four—Lions vs. Cubs.

Foley Listed To Pitch For Warriors

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will attempt to land its second straight baseball victory of the current campaign today, when the Warriors play host to Wilkes College on the Normal Hill field. The first pitch is scheduled to take place at 3 p.m.

Tom Foley, a native of East Stroudsburg and one of two local products on the ESSTC squad, is scheduled to toe the rubber for the Warriors, as they attempt to keep their record free from defeat.

ESSTC opened the season last Saturday by winning over Trenton, 6-5, behind the eight hit pitching of Jim Passaro.

Coach George Ockerhausen announced last night that he plans to stick with the same lineup, with the exception of Foley on the hill in place of Passaro.

Lineup

Don Bachtell will again handle the catching chores, while Bob Hartman operates at first base; Charley Shaw, second base; Lyle Krall, shortstop, and Carmen Mastucci, third base.

The outfield will feature Art Schaare in left, Norman Antoine, center, and Byrd Stout, right.

Although Ockerhausen plans to use the same players, he does contemplate a change in the batting order.

Today's outing is the last before the Easter vacation for the Warriors.

Record Major League To Roll

Record Major League jugglers clash at the Pocono Bowling Center today, at 7 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Globe Furniture vs. Fabel's Dairy.
Alleys three and four—Sheller and Kitchen vs. Line Material.
Alleys five and six—Shoemaker signs vs. Community Bar.
Alleys seven and eight—Gray's Chevrolet vs. Stroudsburg Candyland.

DELEGATES HOME FROM CONVENTION

Delegates from the First Assembly of God, Stokes Ave., Stroudsburg, returned home this week from St. Louis, Mo., where they attended the 11th National Sunday School convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Hazen and daughter Joan of Chipfield Drive, Stroud Township, and Mrs. J. Russell Cairns of 42 Broad St., Stroudsburg, were among 9,200 delegates registered for the convention from March 30 to April 2.

The convention was held in Kiel Municipal Auditorium, St. Louis. Local delegates attended adult, Daily Vacation Bible School, administration, and Men's Bible Class workshops, Hazen reported. Thirty-three classes were conducted for delegates.

According to Hazen, the Assembly of God Sunday School enrollment has reached over 710,000 pupils in the United States. About 46,000 teacher-training certificates were issued during the year ending last October, he said.

Programs featured panel discussions, addresses by ministers and Sunday School leaders and pageant-like visual features.

Among the main speakers were Dr. James DeForest Murch, editor of "United Evangelical Action," Ralph M. Riggs, general superintendent of the Assemblies of God and C. Morse Ward, speaker for the denomination's broadcasts.

Hazen said he was impressed by inspiring messages, especially along the line of progress and church's responsibility in the local community.

Spending the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wood and family were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Westphalen Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Hank Krebs of Long Island.

Mary Freeland and son, Johnny recently spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholson and Mrs. Cora Stettler in their new home in Northampton County. They moved there Feb. 27.

There is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a crossword puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7, 1954

March 31 to April 29 (Aries)—Between 8 a. m. and 2 p. m. planetary indications suggest you be careful in money dealings, signing contracts, leases. Devote sufficient time to everyday matters.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—No day for wild or loose action. Lean to the conservative. Wait-and-see policies will be best—but not inaction. Personal wishes may have to yield to more general issues.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your progress and opportunities will be determined largely by your own approach, conduct and your cooperation with associates. Benefits possible through study, research, conferences.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Progress in substantial undertakings, mechanical and scientific fields. Do not strain to put over propositions or suggestions. Instead use reason, calm assurance.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Stimulating in part for business, professional, personal matters. Most new efforts and work done for prestige favored. Avoid excess optimism, however, thus to be found "snapping."

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—You may have to put a little extra dash in your activities. Use your personality. But be careful not to scatter energies. Heart interests hold an important key.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Concentrate on stabilizing your assets. Don't let needless debts discredit you through thoughtlessness. Avoid that tempting bait, that extra good time in which you should not indulge.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—The A. M. will be most appropriate for reviewing activities, making revisions in plans, but don't go too far in this respect. Avoid anticipating; it may lead to false starts.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius)—Time spent in self-development, making ready for problems is never lost. It saves time later, eliminating needless work and allowing for concentration on other matters. Forethought, fact-finding.

December 24 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Conditions may not be entirely pleasing and in accordance with your whims now. Some unsatisfactory situations are only so on the surface, however. There is opportunity for the keen and energetic to make headway.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—With an honest, vigorous attack you can bring affairs to an excellent standstill. But keep within the limits of your boundaries and your capacity to carry through to proper completion.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—An on-the-job, logical attitude and a refusal to indulge in temperamental help to logical, appreciable credit. Whatever your trade or profession, there are good possibilities to be dug out.

YOU BORN TODAY are generally well balanced, reliable and patient. Many inventors, doctors, lawyers, world travelers are found in this sign. At times you are prone to haste and impulsive reaction of spirit. But withal, you have an affectionate nature and the mental ability to overcome obstacles. You are enterprising in business, science, the arts, music. Your ardent nature should have proper guidance. Birthdays: St. Francis Xavier, "the apostle of Japan"; Wm. Wordsworth, English poet.

Ardis Alling

Bible Interpreter To Give Program Here Thursday Night

Ardis Alling, interpreter of Biblical stories, will present a program on Thursday at 7 p.m. in the college auditorium in East Stroudsburg for the Student Christian Association.

Titled "Scenes from Our Golden Heritage," Miss Alling will give "The Legend of Saul and Miriam," "The Woman of Samaria" and "The Resurrection."

Traditional music has been arranged by Madame Avis Charbonnel, composer, recording the voice of a Cantor, singing unaccompanied in old Hebrew. Madame Charbonnel plays Easter music for "The Resurrection."

Miss Alling is a member of an English family that founded Allingtown, Conn., and helped to found Yale University. Before she was old enough to understand words, she listened as a daily ritual to Bible reading in her father's New England home. Her interest in the Scriptures increased with her comprehension of their meaning.

Visits to the Holy Land brought realization of the people that she portrays. She studied the manners and customs of Biblical heroes and heroines so that her characterizations are authentic, and brought back many of the colorful costumes she wears. Others were especially designed for her.

Other colleges in Pennsylvania in which she has made appearances include Lafayette, Muhlenberg, Lake Erie, Beaver and the University of Pennsylvania. She fills many return engagements.

No admission will be charged for Thursday night's presentation, and the public is invited to attend.

Arrearage Cases Are Processed

Seventeen cases of arrearage in court orders for family support had been processed yesterday through hearings and through out-of-court adjustments.

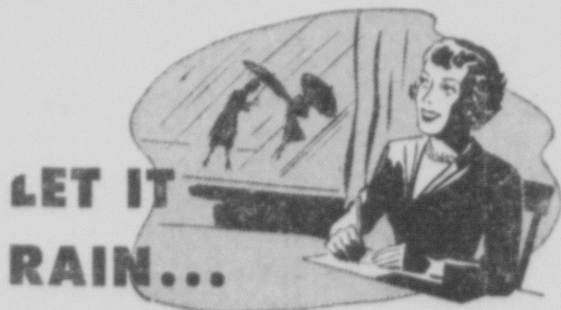

Notices had been sent out by the office of District Attorney Elmer D. Christine that reviews were in order, and nine of the men involved appeared "voluntarily" to work out an adjustment.

The remaining eight cases were disposed of after hearings had been held to determine the earning capacity, expenses, and other incidentals.
